PORTSMOUTH PUBLIC
601 COURT STREET
PORTSMOUTH, VA.

SALUTE

VA 80135 SA 1981
In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth and said, "This is good." But something was missing; so God created "The Saint", and boy was it good! It has been ten years since God created "The Saint" (with a little help from his friends). 1981 is here, and he finally remembered us. With our salute to the saint we bring what he missed: a salute to our academic scholars, our award winning athletes and the people who make our social life fun. We reflect on the friendships we shared, experiences we had and moments that won't soon be forgotten.

Eighth graders, we salute you for making us all remember how much our knees knocked when we first walked down the halls of P.C.H.S. We were afraid of breathing because some upperclassman might throw us in a locker or, worse yet, on top and leave us there to suffer the consequences.

We salute the Freshmen for boosting our Junior Varsity's athletic capabilities and the spirit of our school. We salute you for being there when someone needs a helping hand. Finally we thank you for controlling your class clown, who shall remain nameless.

Sophomores, we salute you for the near misses and heart failures you have caused in the driver's ed. car and for the sincere effort you put into the Enrichment Day Olympics. We salute you for changing the order on your class rings at least twice. Most importantly, we salute you for being the "middle child" and learning how to cope with growing up.

Juniors, with your financial problems and your mammoth egos, we salute you because you're almost there. We salute you for the hard work you put into raising money, especially on the spur of the moment. We salute you for the glamour and excitement you have added to the school, for filling our lives with a smile and for showing a sense of security because you still have one more year in high school.

Seniors, we salute you for the writer's cramp you get from writing your term paper, for the compassion you show because this is your last year here and for the tears you shed at moments you know will never happen again. The friends you made that might be all but forgotten will be remembered by a special moment. We salute you for being able to walk with your head held high with a sense of accomplishment.

For the saints that help us in our time of need and distress we give an extra special salute. You have taught us valuable lessons in life. We thank you for teaching us algebraic equations, for helping us determine an adjective from a verb, for helping us distinguish Louisiana from Italy and for showing us how to split an atom. For all the knowledge you have shared with us, we thank you. For all the saints who clean up after us, feed us and always have an ear for listening we send up a very high salute.

The year 1980-1981 will be nothing but fond memories after June 12th. The love, warmth and friendships at P.C.H.S. outweigh all those "F's-" on compositions or algebra tests. The love and fun will be remembered much longer. For those moments we salute the saints that make P.C.H.S. special.

SAINTS' PEOPLE

SENIORS

The Senior Class was the largest class at P.C. this year. The Seniors placed first in the Enrichment Day Olympics. This day was a fine example of the unity and class spirit of the Seniors. In December, the Seniors sponsored a bloodmobile for the Red Cross at St. John's. We brought in many pints of greatly needed blood. A money-making project and class dues will be used for leaving the school a gift. As our last year at P.C.H.S. draws to a close, we would like to take our fond memories with us and thank those that made them possible.

Junior Class Officers: Cathy Jones, President; Beth Collier, Vice President; Jane Bohan, Treasurer and Secretary.

After returning to school from the summer vacation, the Juniors struggled through the 1980-1981 school year as they looked forward to their senior year and senior privileges. Their goal was to make plans for the prom, but first they had to get the money. Their big fundraiser was selling oranges and grapefruit. Because of the $1,000.00 profit, they made, the Juniors had the prom they never thought they would get to enjoy.

The Junior class sold oranges, oranges, and more oranges. For two weeks all you heard was, "Want to buy some fruit?" The faculty members were often pestered into buying fruit, and Sr. Ethelreda bought the first box. Of course the only one to get rotten fruit was Mr. Campbell.

Our sales chart was displayed on Mrs. Bailes' board. It steadily climbed higher and higher each week. Leading in sales was Julie Zappacosta with over fifty orders. Mrs. Bailes even sold a few boxes herself.

Thanks to Mrs. Hight and Mrs. Bailes the sale was a success. Our thanks to everyone else who supported us in our dire need for money. Because of your support, the Juniors were able to have a prom.

THE SPIRITED CLASS OF '83

The Sophomore class was really in the middle of things this year. They buried themselves in various activities and sports, as well as in academic endeavors. Going to games, going to dances, selling doughnuts and attending other school activities were all on the roster for the Sophomore class. Getting a Drivers Ed. car, getting class rings, being inducted into the National Honor Society, and becoming Juniors were things they all anticipated.

FRESHMEN

The Freshman class arrived this year excited about moving up in the ranks. Although not very large, this class is a spirited group; they always cheer the loudest at basketball games and pep rallies. At Homecoming, the freshmen worked diligently on decorating their spot in the gym. Many students in this class have distinguished themselves in academics and sports. Considering all their bright personalities the members of this class will, as their motto says, "soar to the top".

This year's 8th grade faced many obstacles and responsibilities. The first problem to face the 8th graders was electing class officers. The second challenge that the class of '85 faced was MONEY! That was easily taken care of with class dues. Then came February and Homecoming; they had to decorate, and they had to use their class dues for decorations. These were only the beginning of the many responsibilities the 8th grade will encounter throughout their awaited years of high school.

The 1980-81 SAC had a year of growth and improvement. It made many improvements within itself. By enforcing parliamentary procedure the order of SAC meetings was restored. The many committees such as the spirit committee, the dance committee, the assembly committee, the handbook committee, and the constitution revision committee have helped to restore efficiency. Hopefully the projects such as Hotel Dinwiddie, P.C. Junior Olympics, and Jump Rope for Heart will set precedents for following student governments to improve upon.

Joey looks on as John prepares to develop pictures.

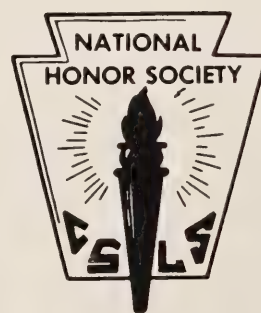

The Photography Club is composed of individuals who share a common interest in the art of photography. The meetings are informal gatherings where experiences and techniques are exchanged and discussed. Many of the members of the Photography Club volunteer their services to the newspaper, the yearbook, and various other projects. Members are encouraged to take part in national, state, and local contests, in addition to the semi-annual club contest. Overall, the Photography Club is a loosely organized and informative activity.

The chorus sings out during the Christmas Concert.

The 1980-1981 chorus class, taught by Mr. Richard Barnes, was composed mainly of female voices. There are seventeen girls and two boys. In November the gym was the site for a sing-a-long in which all sang familiar old ballads and folk songs. In December the chorus presented a Christmas show and the O.D.U. singers came to collaborate in the production. The chorus presented another program in the spring.

Library Council Plans Book Fair

The Library Council had a successful year during 80-81. The Book Fair on Feb. 18-20 made a profit of $45.60 as opposed to the loss last year because of sticky fingers. All in all the Book Fair was enjoyed by everyone. Also many new books were added to the shelves of Portsmouth Catholic High because of the work the Library Council accomplished.

A dedicated Trumpet staff.

The Trumpet, now in its third year, still carried out the same excellence that it has given the students of Portsmouth Catholic High School for the past three years. The school newspaper is an organization that gives high school students a chance to expand their writing and artistic abilities. The few students that have joined the club have found it to be a very worthwhile and profitable club to join.

The Trumpet, like all other newspapers, has an editorial staff. This year's editors are John Hund, Editor-in-Chief; Anne Zemienieuski, Assistant Editor-in-Chief; Joey Penello, Feature Editor; and Beth Vico, Sports Editor. These editors work long hours to make the school paper the best possible.

Other members on the staff include Seniors Rita Perry, and Mike Wagner, Juniors Roberta Lamb, Bill Clare, and Jeff Pryor, Sophomores Karen Bryant, Cecilia Gonzalez, Kris Helwig, Dwight Loew, Marcia Russo, and Valerie Zirkle, Freshmen Denise Iwaniew, Marisa Napies, and Lisa Pryor, 8th Graders Joanne Napies, Paula Spruiell, and Thomas Ayres.

STAFF STARTS GRAND TRADITION

My Fellow Saints,

I do hope you won't mind me using this space for little informal salutes. But first I'd like to share my experience of being the editor with you.

To be the editor you have to know how to compromise, be patient, and have a sense of humor. I have none of these qualities, but I tried. Compromising is a must, especially with Mrs. Klein when she doesn't like picture captions. (Einstein's Theory . . .) Patience comes in handy especially when Juli messes up on a layout 6 or 7 times. A sense of humor made the meetings more fun, when they often turned out to be gossip sessions, where we learned some pretty juicy stuff. But more often than not I was a real pain before, during and after meetings. Teachers' and co-workers' facial expressions revealed anticipation of what I had in store for them. They were right so many times that after awhile when they saw me coming they disappeared into the woodwork. Some days I really got a complex. No matter how big the circles grew under my eyes around deadline and how much I groaned, I would never trade places with anyone for this last year's experiences on the yearbook. The friends I have made, the experiences I have shared and the fun I have had creating this book are beyond words.

As the tears begin to roll I'd like to say thanks to a few people.

To Mom and Dad, thanks for putting up with me around deadline, and thanks for being patient and caring enough to cut off the light when I fell asleep over a layout or a picture without a caption. Without your support P.C. would be without a yearbook. I love you.

To Peggy my friend, companion, taxi driver and lifesaver, I say thanks for putting up with my rantings and ravings about pictures and deadlines. You listened to every one of my complaints and gripes about the yearbook. You even suffered through my terrible moods, but you remained my friend. Again I say a special thank you.

Mrs. Klein and Mrs. Orleans, thank you for making my senior year an even more special year by giving me the position of editor. The gratitude cannot be expressed. Throughout all of this I believe I have made two wonderful friends; and through prayer I'm still alive, even after riding with Mrs. Orleans, alias Richard Petty, on Enrichment Day.

To Jane, Maria, and Dawn, I say thank you for showing up at my house for every yearbook meeting. You guys really made the highlights of the year. But the experience I shall remember you best for, is seeing you walk in the door at my house on Sunday morning at 9:30 a.m. and not seeing you leave until 10:30 p.m. on the day before deadline. Zero's was really sorry to see us leave; we gave them so much business pigging out that night. I'm really sorry we all flunked our test the next day, but we sure enjoyed ourselves.

Finally I say to my whole yearbook staff, a sincere thank you for all the help and support that went into the yearbook . . . I appreciate the time you spent and sleep you lost on early morning meetings. I believe this year was extra special because of you. Again I say thank you.

Although writing this farewell letter is a relief because it is the last thing I will do for the yearbook, I am still saddened to see a close come to my year as editor. As the tears continue to fall, I will always remember my staff and the fun we had creating this memory book for the Saints of PCHS. I am proud to say I am the editor of the 1980-81 SAINT, and I hope it will be enjoyed by all. Farewell.

P.S. Feel free to write me at Peaceful Valley Resting Home. My nurse is more than happy to read Letters to me.

The Ecology Club tries to make students aware of the nature, ecology, and environment around them. This year they planned a picnic to North West River Park, decorated the Christmas tree next to the school door, cleaned up Churchland Park and Sea Wall, and went camping in the spring.

Their main project was fixing up the seniors' court by adding flower beds and potted plants. The money needed came from the treasury, and they also recieved $25.00 from the Virginia Forest Association for sponsoring the "Keep America Green" poster contest.

Art Club Adds Splash Of Color

The Art Club busy painting the mini-court.

The purpose of the Art Club is to help the students become more aware of their school environment. Every year they hold a door decorating contest at Christmas to display the true meaning of Christmas. At the same time they decorate the school and sell spirit links. All proceeds go to charity. Along with the Ecology Club and Art III, the Art Club is also working on the mini-court outside the Senior Hall. They are doing most of the painting.

The purpose of the FBLA is to make the students more business oriented. The FBLA was involved in many activities that brought students into contact with the business world. During Halloween they were given points from the March of Dimes for handing in cards at the Mansion of Terror. They filled a Thanksgiving basket and gave it to the poor and also held a Christmas party for the senior citizens at Holiday House. In March they sold T-shirts and sweat shirts. They gave part of the profit to the March of Dimes and put the rest in the treasury. The member who sold the most got a prize. They also went to observe various businesses in Tidewater.

Seniors' First Experience At UN

"I refuse to support the Soviet Union."

The Senior Government classes sent representatives to ODU to participate in the Model United Nations. Mrs. Gale Butt helped the students prepare themselves for their first crack at politics. They had to know parliamentary procedure backwards and forwards. Six Juniors also attended on Friday to acquaint themselves with the Model UN to prepare themselves for next year.

Career Day enlighteneu many P.C. students as to which professions they would like to pursue as adults. Such professions as Dentistry, Modeling, Law, Psychology, Oceanography, and the F.B.I., were represented along with many others. Students were very cooperative in making the guests feel welcome. This is an annual event in which the students and everyone involved are greatly benefitted.

A Change Of Pace

Bowling, karate, horseback riding, skating, cosmetology, and racketball were some of the activities PCHS students participated in for Enrichment Day. It was a nice change from the regular grind. The students really enjoyed these two days and anxiously anticipate Enrichment Day's to come.

Alright who messed up this time?!

Saints: Varsity Cheerleaders

Take off, Jane!

The cheerleaders began their season early this year with a week of daylong practice sessions organized by Mrs. Mary Ann Viola. During this time posters were designed, spirit buttons were made, and the five new cheerleaders were taught cheers by veterans Margaret Loew, Patty Lyons, Denyse Hernandez, Sandra Sasser, and Mary Beth Viola.

It is funny to recall the mishaps over this year. During her first game, Tina Sullivan was thrown into the bleachers by an aggressive player. Terry Larson, Maria Morlino, and Denyse Hernandez know the feeling of being dropped from the top of a mount in front of a crowd of laughing fans. Not a week went by without Jane Bohan forgetting her tights at least once. Quick to learn new cheers, Mary Hoofnagle had no trouble being a rookie. While the weekly practices are very helpful, nothing keeps the cheerleaders from going blank during at least one cheer.

The 1980-81 cheerleaders have been said to be the most dedicated and loyal fans ever. This is evident in their willingness to cheer at four soccer games in the pouring rain. These acts of loyalty have resulted in wet hair dried at McDonald's under the hand dryer and in uniforms being dry cleaned in time for the next day's game.

No matter what the statistics are for the basketball and soccer teams, the cheerleaders always have a winning season.

Practice makes perfect.

"Get fired up!" Yells Maria.

Saints: J.V. Girls Basketball

The J.V. Lady Saints, although composed of only nine players this year, were a rough and spirited group of young ladies. Their record didn't in any way represent all the excitement that this group brought to their school and to their fans.

This team which is backed by five vets turned out to do better than most thought. Losing to Norfolk Academy by only two points in overtime was only the beginning. The J.V. Saints lost by a wide margin to Nansemond Suffolk Academy in an away game, but at the home game the "Academy" could do nothing but watch while Barbara Stewart sunk two foul shots. Then Karen Bryant made a last second shot. The final score was 31-29.

Against arch-rival Norfolk Catholic the Lady Saints played one of their finest games. Although they lost, the Lady Crusaders knew they had a battle to win when they played the Saints at home. Their season was plagued by injuries. The Saints played well against the Crusaders, but they were not able to capture the victory.

All in all the J. V. season was very successful. Coach Peele should be commended.

I'm glad I didn't have to pay for this game!

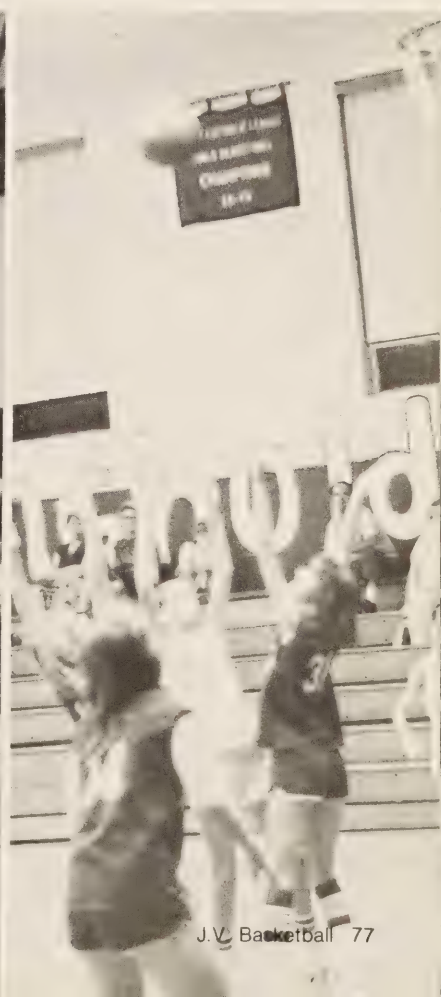

Calm down Karen.

And they said it couldn't be done.

It's gotta come down some time!

This year's girls's varsity basketball team will be graduating seven seniors. The team players include Caroline Arcese, Sarah Ayres, Kelly Sharrett, Kathy Nelson, Cathy Novotny, Teresa Russo, Peggy Sanford and Junior, Anne Stewart. The head coach is Madalyn Grimes, and her helpful assistant is Randy Peele. With the help of a new coach and hard work from the team, the Lady Saints have greatly improved. Three of the seven seniors start for the Lady Saints. They include Caroline Arcese, Sarah Ayres and Kelly Sharrett. The Lady Saints are aided by sophomore guards, Marica Russo and Valerie Zirkle.

Dwight grows wings on a header.

Despite the Varsity Soccer team's record of 2-10-4, will and determination were strong. Next year's Saints will find it hard to beat the team fellowship and spirit found this year.

The warmer part of the season, early in September, was plagued with injuries. Brennan O'Connor and Jerome Brooks suffered sprained ankles, and many had aching muscles that they never knew existed. One pulled muscle caused Bubba Mounie to sit out a few games. But the team held tight, knowing things could only get better.

The second half of the season found freezing weather and drenching rains. The team soon got over the discomfort of wet uniforms and sloshy cleats to play whole heartedly. Those whose spirits were down went to Marty Wilson alias Dr. "T" who could get you going with either a kind word or a dirty joke, depending on what type of guy you are.

There were many personal successes for individual team members. Brennan O'Connor and Willie Watkins led the team in scoring. Sophomores Jerome Brooks and Troy Barnes were given 1st team honors, All-Conference and All-State respectively. Willie was also honored with 2nd team AllConference.

Although the J.V. Saints' record was disappointing, the J.V.'s were a thrill to watch. They worked hard to keep up with the opposing teams, often losing by only a few points. With Coach Angle and promising talent, next year's J.V. Saints will be awesome.

The Varsity Saints of 1980-81 were incredible to watch. After the discouraging season last year, many found it hard to believe that these were some of the same boys. Skills had improved and new plays were added. A few individual talents made fans sit up and take note of the Saints. Lee's fifteen foot jumpers took your breath away, and Brian's ability to drive through to the basket startled his defenders. The game that the Saints will be remembered for in 1981 is Homecoming. As fans we should thank the Saints for keeping us on the edge of our seats until the final two seconds when Brian sunk a basket from ten feet out. The gym was filled with spirit and cheers it hasn't heard in quite a while.

Erin, our own TCIS 1st team member.

This year's volleyball team had the best season in the history of Portsmouth Catholic's Volleyball teams. The Lady Saints started off winning game after game until their record read 6-0. No one could believe the Saints were to face the Crusaders undefeated.

The 1980-81 Volleyball team was successful because of the number of veterans. The Saints had 12 vets, of which six were Seniors. Sarah Ayres & Erin Howerton were chosen as the Co-Captains. Erin was also elected to the 1st team all-conference team.

Although the Volleyball team had a few problems along the line the season turned out great. The Volleyball Team feels they will also have a great team next year.

A Victory Highlights The Crowning of a Queen

A decked out Pink Panther greets the class of '60 from the class of '83.

Thomas braves the heights to weave a basket.

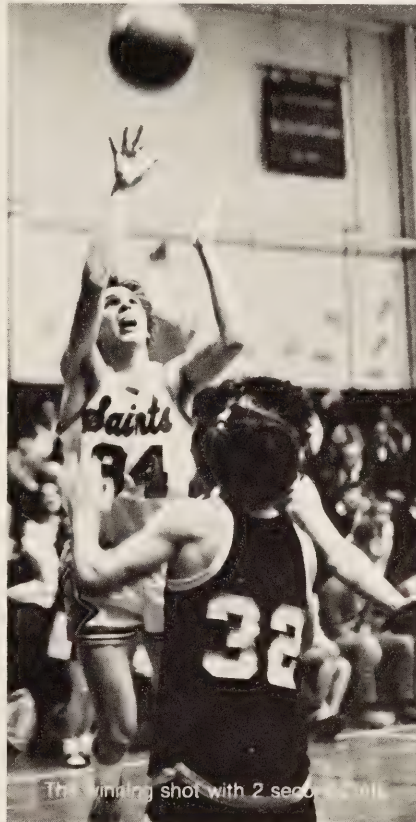

Nominees for Homecoming Queen.

Early Saturday morning found Portsmouth Catholic students, with sleep still in their eyes, making paper flowers and painting letters. Using innovative methods, a 20 foot replica of the world was stuck to the gym wall at the last minute by the Junior class. The bright decorations paid tribute to the class of '60' Sunday afternoon, February 8.

In the first bout with Gibbons the J.V. Saints lost 74-45. After this Denyse Hernandez was crowned Homecoming Queen while her father, of the class of 1960, looked on with pride. Terry Larson, whose father was also a member of the class of 1960, had the privilege of being Maid of Honor.

Happiness shown on the faces of all as Sister Zoe was escorted into the gym to watch her favorite basketball team. The thrill of victory has never been as strong as when the Saints of P.C. beat the Saints of Gibbons High School. The victory was clinched for a score of 81-79 by a shot by Brian Sharrett in the final 2 seconds.

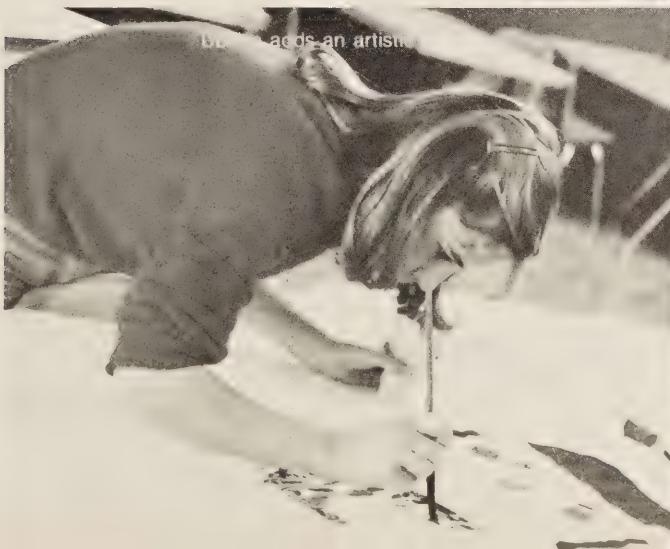

The winning shot with 2 seconds.
